DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Maeno

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application.

Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Maeno discloses in fig. 1-6e a Vibration type actuator comprising: a vibration member having (1) a shape line symmetrical respect to two orthogonal planes; electro-mechanical energy conversion elements (3) which can excite three different types of bending vibrations which have the same natural vibration frequency; arrange in the same plane which displace in a different direction of axis which is brought into contact with driving portions (201b) of the vibration member. Wherein, the vibration wave apparatus drives the drive member in an arbitrary direction in three dimensions by selecting and exciting two of the three types of bending vibrations. Where, the driving apparatus drives the drive member (401) in an arbitrary direction in the three dimensions by selecting and exciting two of the three types of bending vibration, and the driving portions (201b) of the vibration member protrudes from the vibration member in a direction which the three types of bending vibration displace. Meano also discloses, two of the three types of bending vibrations having the same vibration patterns 90 degrees out of phase from the same plane of the bending vibrations (fig3b-d). Wherein, the bending vibrations has a node at which an antinode of the other bending vibration is located and the drive member has a curve (401) surface that comes in contact with the drive portions (201b) of the vibration member.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 9-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over Maeno in view of Tomikawa(5760528) .

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art only under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) might be overcome by: (1) a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not an invention "by another"; (2) a showing of a date of invention for the claimed subject matter of the application which corresponds to subject matter disclosed but not claimed in the reference, prior to the effective U.S. filing date of the reference under 37 CFR 1.131; or (3) an oath or declaration under 37 CFR 1.130 stating that the application and reference are currently owned by the same party and that the inventor named in the application is the prior inventor under 35 U.S.C. 104, together with a terminal disclaimer in accordance with 37 CFR 1.321(c). For applications filed on or after November 29, 1999, this rejection might also be overcome by showing that the subject matter of the reference and the claimed invention were, at the time the invention was made, owned by the same person or subject to an obligation of assignment to the same person. See MPEP § 706.02(I)(1) and § 706.02(I)(2).

Maeno substantially discloses the claim invention in figs 1-6d. However, Maeno do not disclose a vibration member having a square outer shape made up of a plate member and projection protruding (12,13) from the surface of the plate member.

Tomikawa disclose a vibration actuator in fig. (14) comprising: a vibration member (10) having a square outer shape made up of a plate (11) member and projection protruding from the surface of the plate member. Wherein the projection are arrange substantially middle portions and corner portions of the square for the purpose of generating elliptic motion at a predetermine position of the frame. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the vibration actuator of Maeno with the vibration member of Tomikawa for the purpose providing a vibration actuator, which is capable of moving multi-dimensionally on a flat plane.
